To the Investigative Reporters:

Attached please find the limited news articles outlining a series of large scale Ponzi schemes and thefts of museum artifacts have taken place, only limited news coverage has resulted due to abuse of SLAPP (Strategic Lawsuits Against Public Participation) and abuse of protective orders against people who have never stepped foot in Kansas or Oklahoma.

There have been deaths of whistleblowers, extensive federal litigation, bogus criminal cases ending in acquittals, constant abuse of domestic violence protection orders, claiming anyone alerting the public is stalking the criminals perpetrating the scam

This saga involves in excess of $1 BILLION in stolen investor funds, a Ponzi scheme prosecuted by US Attorneys, a Kansas stockbroker who was fined and suspended, thousands of Kansas and Oklahoma farmers, ranchers, teachers and workers who have been defrauded.

Chad Koehn the suspended stock broker with United Capital Management of Kansas Inc. headquartered in Salina Kansas is at the heart of orchestrating the legal entanglements for anyone who has dared speak out and help us get our money back.

As previously printed in small town newspapers everyone is AFRAID to speak out out of fear of retaliation! This matter is of NATIONAL public concern. Involves non-profits, a Frank Lloyd Wright building, a massive Ponzi fraud, multiple crypto currency and stock scams, much of what has happened is centered around United Capital Management of Kansas Inc. and its owner Chad M. Koehn. PLEASE HELP GET THE GOVERNMENT TO ACT

Historic Shin'enKan artifacts sold by Price Tower amid financial struggles

ANDY DOSSETT, BARTLESVILLE EXAMINER-ENTERPRISE

The Price Tower owners confirmed Thursday that they sold the few remaining artifacts from Shin'enKan, Joe Price's Bartlesville home designed and built by architect Bruce Goff, which burned down on Dec. 26, 1996.

The centerpiece of the collection, the Shin'enKan gate that has stood outside the Price Tower for more than 20 years, was sold — cut from its pillars, dismantled and loaded on a truck Thursday morning.

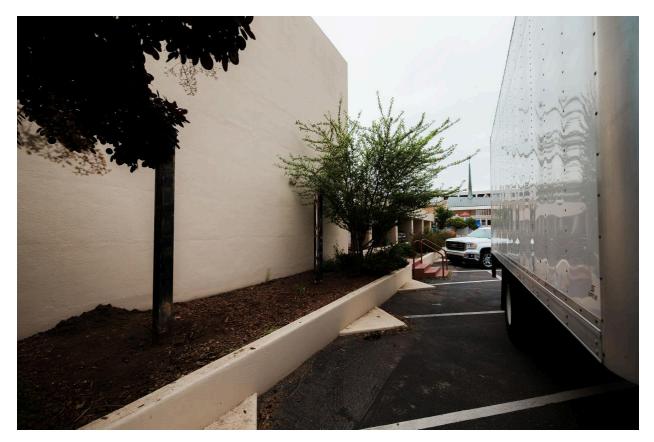

The Shin'enKan gate was put on display outside the Price Tower by the Friends of Shin'enKan in 2002.

The EE learned through an anonymous tip on Wednesday that two men were loading up a box truck with artifacts. Upon arriving Wednesday evening, the EE reporter was accosted by Price Tower owner Cynthia Blanchard.

"Andy, what the f are you doing here? What the f are you doing?" Blanchard yelled from across the parking lot. "Are you trying to kill the Tower?"

Shin'enKan gate was sold, dismantled and loaded onto truck headed to Dallas Thursday morning.

At the time, Blanchard initially reported that the gate was being sent off to be restored and wasn't being sold, but confirmed that other pieces from storage and the museum were sold to keep the Price Tower afloat.

The EE observed multiple items, such as furniture and pieces of art, loaded into the box truck on Wednesday. At the time, Blanchard didn't confirm which items were sold.

"These people offered to help, and they are restoring it for us," Blanchard said. "It's long overdue."

When pressed for further information Thursday, she confirmed that the gate had been sold to save it.

"In truth, the community should be thanking us for saving the gate," Blanchard replied in a text when asked if the gate had been sold. "Yes, someone has offered to help."

Mary Winn Dills, the former curator and caretaker of Shin'enKan, told the EE she was sick about what was happening.

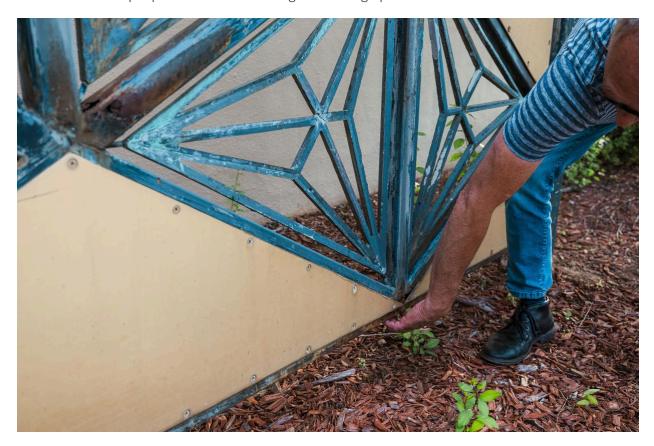

"It's like we are reliving the loss all over again," Dills said. "The gate, phoenix and ashtray were all loaned to the tower by the Friends of Shin'enKan, and now they are gone."

Dills said the Price Tower told her they sold the artifacts and that they would have the first right of refusal once the gate was restored.

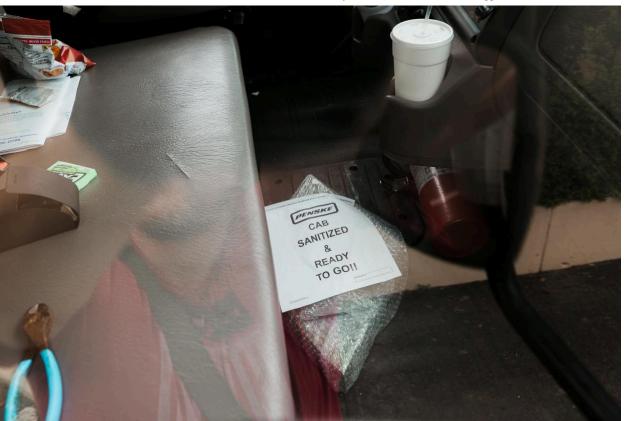

"I'm skeptical we will get it back; if it's gone, what difference does it make?" Dills said, "They don't have any money; how can they pay for the gate to be restored?"

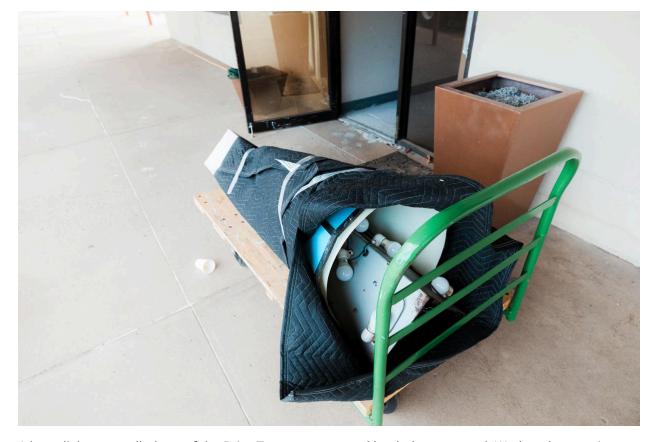

The informational plaque for the Shin'enKan gate was dug up and removed.

Barry Gream, the new owner of the Shin'enKan gate from the Dallas area, highlights the rust repairs required on the structure.

In the cab of the truck, a diamond shaped object that appears to be the ashtray from Shin'enKan designed by Bruce Goff.

A large light was pulled out of the Price Tower storage and loaded onto a truck Wednesday evening.

Herasoft unable to fulfill monetary obligations, seeks to sell historic building

Anthem Blanchard, CEO of both Herasoft and Anthem Vault Inc., declared in court documents dated April 1 that his company is financially insolvent and unable to fulfill any monetary claims, including significant back pay owed to former employees.

According to the documents obtained by the EE Friday, Blanchard was ordered in February 2023 to pay a settlement of $90,000 in a back pay claim from former employee Jason Carstensen. Carstensen, who was initially owed $126,000, had agreed to a reduced settlement.

Court documents reveal Blanchard failed to meet his obligations and was sued again in Washington County Court this year. In response, Blanchard said he doesn't have the money.

The historic and former Washington County Courthouse located in Downtown Bartlesville.

"Unfortunately, Anthem Vault, Inc. is currently unable to meet its financial obligations and is in the process of winding down its operations," Blanchard stated in his April 1 written response to the court summons. "As such, we regret to inform the court that the company does not possess the means to fulfill any monetary claims presented in the petition."

In the response, Blanchard even asked Court Clerk Jill Spitzer for advice on proceeding "in light of the company's financial circumstances," the documents say.

Carstensen claims Herasoft owes a handful of employees back pay.

During his employment with Herasoft Inc., Carstensen received his paychecks from Anthem Vault Inc. He claims that the two companies are, in fact, the same.

Herasoft moved its operations to Bartlesville in 2021 with a reported $5 million round of series-A funding and a growing client list. Blanchard claimed they had offices in Houston and Sao Paulo, Brazil, at the time.

He also was the executive officer of two now-defunct crypto-blockchain companies, Hercules SEZC and AnthemGold, both of which are facing multiple online accusations of fraud from customers.

Blanchard is also linked to 38 other companies, such as AMAGI Metals LLC, Anthem Bank Inc, Anthem Coins Ltd, Anthem Crypto, Anthem AU, AnthemDerivatives, AnthemDollar Ltd and AnthemGold Inc.

Further complicating matters, Herasoft Inc. is selling the building housing its Bartlesville headquarters, the historic and former Washington County Courthouse, for $1.2 million.

Meanwhile, Anthem's wife Cynthia, owner of Price Tower and former president of Herasoft, is selling museum artifacts to address the tower's financial shortcomings.

Cynthia Blanchard previously said that Herasoft employees were part of the team taking ownership of the Price Tower.

Anthem Blanchard and Herasoft were unavailable for comment and phone numbers associated with Herasoft are no longer in service.

Price Tower stakeholders accuse Blanchards of dodging debts, claim they're owed $200K plus

Before Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard paid relatively nothing to secure ownership of Bartlesville's architectural jewel, the Frank Lloyd Wright Price Tower, from a local nonprofit, deals were allegedly made for all the partners to get rich.

The Blanchards took over ownership in March 2023 with a promise to pay down the debt and invest $10 million into the property.

Those promises have not been kept, according to multiple sources, many of whom requested anonymity out of fear of retaliation for speaking out.

Mike Moran, Dale Takio and Craig Brand all claim they were owed hundreds of thousands of dollars by HeraSoft, a Bartlesville crypto start-up owned and operated by the Blanchards.

Frank Lloyd Wright Price Tower located in Bartlesville, OK.

"We all were suckered into transferring debt that was owed from Anthem's company [HeraSoft] into taking equity, " said Brand, one of the equity owners of Price Tower.

The three were offered a deal: take the money owed to them by HeraSoft in the form of equity in a new business opportunity — Copper Tree Inc., the company that took over ownership of the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed skyscraper last spring.

"We just wanted to take enough where it was secured by a physical asset," Moran said.

Moran clarified that their intention was not to gain control of the Tower but said they were worried about HeraSoft's debt. They considered trading the debt for equity in the Price Tower a strategy to prevent Blanchard from dodging payment through bankruptcy.

After taking the deal, Moran and Takio began developing a five-year business plan to solve the Tower's financial woes.

"So basically, we came in to help see if we could first build a for-profit business model and a marketing plan to allow the Price Tower to be self-sufficient and not dependent upon the perpetual need to raise money," Moran said.

They say that plan fell apart when Anthem brought in Santa Monica restauranteur Anthony Fischler to open two restaurants in the Tower. After more than $80,000 in incentives from the Bartlesville Development Authority, only one restaurant opened and

In December, Cynthia Blanchard said Fischler is no longer involved with the project and the partnership "wasn't working."

Moran and Takio said they were against public incentives and, after the failed restaurants, took a step back. Eventually, they claim they were cut out of the decision-making process altogether.

While Moran and Takio fell in love with Bartlesville and the Price Tower and wanted to see it succeed, Brand claims he was told something completely different.

"I was brought in by [Cynthia] and informed by her that this was going to be a quick flip," Brand said. "The assets were going to be added up, that the art was going to be added up, that the building was going to be appraised, and then it was going to be flipped, and everybody would get their money back and a whole lot more."

Brand claims as a shareholder, every attempt to look at the Price Tower's books or to ask for internal documents about the Tower's financial health was met with silence.

According to internal Price Tower documents obtained by the EE, the Blanchards owe the three around $200,000. Moran, Takio and Brand say it's significantly more than that. Those same documents estimate the Tower's current debt to be close to $2 million.

The three men said they will sue the Blanchards "to be made whole" in what they say the Blanchards owe them for HeraSoft and Copper Tree.

Brand said pre-lawsuit notices have already been sent to the Blanchards asking them not to sell or transfer assets. He believes the Blanchards violated the pre-lawsuit notice by selling the few remaining Shin'enKan artifacts.

In a previous story, Cynthia Blanchard told the EE she had to sell off museum artifacts to keep the Price Tower afloat.

In response to requests for comment on this story, she replied, "I am not available to comment and talk."

With the 2023 release of the movie adaptation of Killers of the Flower Moon, many came to understand for the first time how the unholy partnering of government and greed in a rural area of Northeast Oklahoma led to the murder of many Osage tribal members and the theft of their wealth and land. With the discovery of oil on Osage land, government and ruthless fortune hunters paired to strip the Osage of their property, and often, their lives. Not much has changed in areas like Pawhuska and Bartlesville, Oklahoma, as the generational progeny of many of those legalized thieves and elitists continue to own much of the area and control the populous.

Within the newest wave of this concerning behavior, old tricks meet new technology as it appears Bartlesville is being raked by a pack of bitcoin hustlers with considerable help from a highly questionable group of city leaders.

Dressed as Town Saviors, High-Tech Talkers Snap Up Bartlesville's Landmarks, Pricey Art & City Money Then Go "Broke"

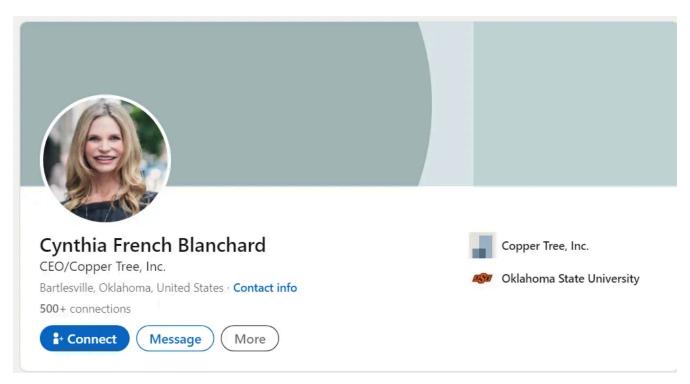

In 2021, the old Bartlesville courthouse was purchased as the new headquarters of tech companies HeraSoft and Anthem Vault by married couple Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard for a reported price of $1,000,000. The move was heralded by city leaders as a job creator for the community with HeraSoft promising to bring 50 new, high-paying jobs to town. Bartlesville Monthly Magazine called the couple "Bartlesville's New Tech Pioneers". Just 18-months later, the Price Tower, the community's most valuable landmark, was gifted to the same couple's Green Copper Holdings (subsidiary of Copper Tree Inc) for just $10.

As the only Frank Lloyd Wright designed skyscraper ever built and a declared National Historic Landmark, Price Tower was estimated to be worth more than $6 million. The tower contains a hotel furnished with Wright pieces and was the longtime home of the Price Tower Arts Center (PTAC) which reportedly contained $20 to $30 million worth of art and historic artifacts. Somehow, yet not publicly mentioned at the time, the $10 deal included all art and other contents within Price Tower.

As Cynthia Blanchard was publicly promising to put $10 million into the tower's upkeep and renovation, touting HeraSoft's monetary success as just what the town needed, it appears from a lawsuit filed against Anthem Blanchard by American Express for $128,192.81 in unpaid debt, the couple may have been living off of cash advances from credit at the time. Nevertheless, city leaders began pledging taxpayer funds through the Bartlesville Development Authority to Green Copper Holdings to assist in the Blanchard's efforts to revamp a restaurant and other interior features of the tower.

Publicly available at LinkedIn page for Cynthia Blanchard.

Shortly after Brad Doenges, chairman of the PTAC's board, signed off on the $10 quick claim deed to Price Tower, a source confirms Cynthia Blanchard was approaching lenders offering the building's artwork as collateral for a major loan. And now, the Blanchard's are claiming to be broke and are selling off the courthouse building and Bartlesville's most precious cultural artifacts and art from the Price Tower. No one representing the City of Bartlesville seems interested in stopping them.

New evidence suggests city leaders were amply warned from the beginning about what was about to befall Bartlesville. Instead of heeding the warning, it appears the city manager, city attorney, local police, district attorney and local court chose to prosecute a key whistleblower. How exactly did this happen, and what became of that whistleblower?

The new scam by Anthem hayek Blanchard and Logan R. Golema is Hera Software and Development also known as HeraSoft this is a real scam company that rebrands open time stamps and sells it to idiots they seem to have suckered the Qatar government so they say in the press releases they issue themselves. Qatar Tourism Counsil apparently don't have a single person with basic technology experience that knows where the button is for google. Qatar is paying millions to Blanchard for a service any of the countries teenagers could provide for free. Qatar must be one of the most backwards countries on the planet and desperate as can be for any tourism and any media. Or they have no idea they are being used by Blanchard. What a SCAM. No one will ever see a dime back from this scammer. Qatar has probably lost 100's of millions in revenue being linked to this scam.

Anthem Blanchard is associated with Shawn Owen or Shawn Owen-Jones of Salt Blockchain, a corporation charged by the SEC related to a $47 million rake (2017) involving an unregistered initial coin offering (ICO) of digital tokens. The company was ordered to return funds to investors and pay a $250,000 fine. Around the same time, Salt Blockchain received a Covid PPP loan of $1.2 million from the federal government, so it looks like taxpayers paid their fine and more. The company went on to sell loans backed by crypto currency.

Jobadiah "Joby" Sinclair Weeks (39), another Blanchard associate, was the frontman for BitClub, a crypto investment scam that stole more than $722 million from mostly small investors. Weeks played up his all-play-no-work, world traveling lifestyle as a BitClub investor to lure people into the scam which front-loaded initial earnings to fool potential buyers.

Joby Weeks and partner, previously available online at weeksabroad.com.

Amid a federal investigation and indictments, Weeks admitted to securities and tax offenses in the BitClub scam. Anthem Blanchard is reported to have been a recruiter of investors in the digital ponzi scheme but has not been prosecuted.

These people are all CRIMINALS! Anthem Blanchard, Shawn Owens, Joby Weeks. Speaking of Weeks this CRIMINAL is living it up high on the hog along side Owens and Blanchard in Colorado.

Mr Entitled, a.k.a. Joby "Thief and Liar" Weeks is very determined to get out of his probably COVID infested remand prison, now Weeks has gotten out of Prison and is living it up high on the hog in a mansion in Colorado, hiding his stolen bitcoin booty with the likes of Blanchard and Owens. Hope the government moves in and grabs up those who are holding all that bitcoin. Blanchard brags about having access to Week's $120 MILLION in Bitcoin. Of course Blanchard is Owens best buddy and advisor to Equa like Weeks is the marketing lead advisor to Blanchard.

Who says crime doesn't pay? These thieves have stolen 100's of millions and at worst they get put on house arrest for their prison time. Where is the Justice?

You know they all know Russ Medlin. They can't say they didn't know about Medlin's past. They know and probably helped Medlin fly around the world and continue his predatory behavior to children.

This doting father Weeks (he flew his newly born daughter to all the U.S. states in 42 days. Paid for by BitClub investors) would absolutely have known about Medlin's past child sex conviction, and as his recent arrest is for that very thing, it is obvious that Medlin was an active predator on other people's daughters, whilst he flew round and round the world, signing up BitClub suckers.

That was ok with Libertarian Weeks, but when Medlin (allegedly) rips him off for some money, he becomes persona non grata.

Bitfury get a mention, as does AnarchaPulco where Weeks boasted on that infamous Soundcloud recording Weeks is full of "we's" and "ours" and for all the world is talking about his company BitClub Network buying vast amounts of sometimes non existent mining equipment from BitFury, going to be "the biggest in the world", blahblah...

Now Blanchard is claiming to be in business with major sovereigns around the world and making claims to be working with the US government. Shawn Owens makes outlandish claims right along side Blanchard and Weeks. Get these bitclub scammers in prison where they belong.

At least five other men involved either pleaded guilty, reached a plea deal or are still wanted for large-scale wire fraud and the illegal sale of unregistered securities in the BitClub fallout. Those include Gordon Brad Beckstead, Matthew Goettsche, Joseph Abel, Silviu Catalin Balaci, and Russ Medlin.

Those seemingly most familiar with the bitcoin world have been throwing up red flags about pedophilia within the ranks of this group for some time due to Russ Medlin's involvement:

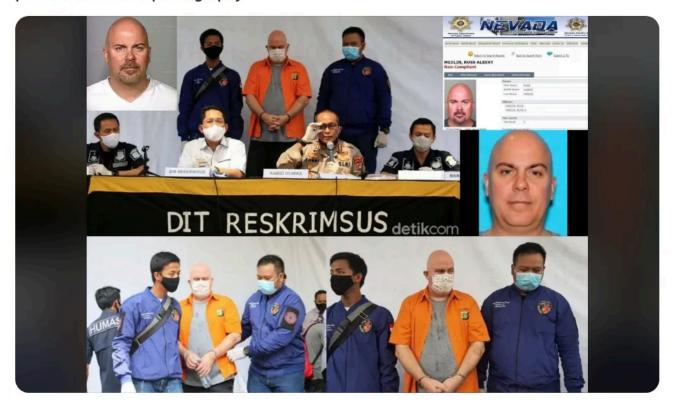

Publicly available review from gripeo.com.

Russ Medlin, who reportedly lived with the Blanchards in Las Vegas, is a convicted sex offender. According to the Nevada State sex offender public website, a Russ Albert Medlin was listed as a "non compliant" tier-two offender with a Las Vegas address. After serving two years related to two convictions for sexual crimes against children in Nevada, Medlin fled the U.S. in the wake of the BitClub scandal and slipped into Indonesia as Interpol was flagging him as wanted by the FBI. Soon after, Medlin was arrested for paying three children for sex in Indonesia. Similar to his crimes in Nevada, Medlin had one child take video of his sexual acts upon the others.

White American tourist, bitcoin scammer and fugitive (Russ Albert Medlin, 49) in Indonesia arrested on sex charges; made sex tapes with underage girls; suspected to have raped many more underage girls; had been jailed in Nevada for statutory rape of a girl, 14, and possession of child pornography

Bartlesville City Leaders, DA, Police and Judges Conspire to Silence Whistleblower: Shocking Hidden Court Case &
Missing Exonerated Defendant

JULY 22, 2020

Cayman Enterprise City Ltd. v. Hercules SEZC et al: Complaint

Complaint in Cayman Enterprise City Ltd. v. Hercules SEZC, of the Cayman Islands, and AG Herc Inc., of Delaware, at the Summary Court of the Cayman Islands. Editor's Note: On their website at www.herc.one, the defendants claim to offer blockchain-based "decentralized supply chain management software". The group's "Key Management" is identified as Anthem Hayek Blanchard, CEO; Cynthia Blanchard, President; Paul Aubert, Vice President, and Josh Gunter, Director of Client Services.

It is this "Hercules" or "Herc" crypto currency that prompted a whistleblower to contact Bartlesville's city manager Mike Bailey and city attorney Jess Kane with a clear warning about the Blanchard's plan to fleece Bartlesville. This whistleblower held 500,000 shares of earned equity in HeraSoft and was accusing the Blanchards of stealing his technology related to Hercules and defrauding investors. What did the city do with that warning? They aggressively prosecuted the whistleblower.

A felony criminal case (filed January 10, 2022) within Washington County (11th District) Court tells the tale of Michael Eric Nelson, a former Blanchard employee who contacted Bartlesville's city manager Mike Bailey and city attorney Jess Kane by email on August 25, 2021, to warn about the Blanchards' past and present danger to Bartlesville. According to later court documents, Nelson had firsthand knowledge of the Blanchards' involvement with the BitClub scandal prior to the couple's relocation of HeraSoft to Bartlesville as others were indicted.

Instead of investigating the detailed claims within Nelson's email, city manager Bailey immediately contacted the Blanchards. Just one day after the arrival of the whistleblower email, Judge Russell C. Vaclaw signed off on an out-of-county, emergency ex-parte protective order against Nelson on behalf of both Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard. At that time, Nelson had never even visited Oklahoma and clearly lacked the statutory relationship with the Blanchards to warrant such an order. The Bartlesville Police Department (BPD) provided the needed police report to support a stalking/harassment claim against Nelson within the PPO filed on August 26, 2021.

Washington County protective order case, available at oscn.net.

This publication previously reported concerning Judge Vaclaw's misuse of protective orders under domestic violence statutes for silencing the ideological opposition of those he aligns with. Vaclaw recused himself from one such case after our report of his conflict of interest involving the LGBT advocacy organization Oklahomans for Equality, only to be replaced by District Judge Linda Thomas. Vaclaw's previous order, as continued and expanded by Thomas, silenced a street preacher for sharing scripture, represents a direct threat to individual freedoms of speech and religion across Oklahoma, was contested, and is currently scheduled for review by the State Supreme Court. Once again, both Thomas and Vaclaw are involved in what looks like unlawful silencing, this time involving whistleblower Nelson.

With the protective order in place, the city, BPD, then District Attorney Kevin Buchanan, and the local court began an effort to criminally charge Michael Nelson for felony stalking (October 19, 2021).

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

As the charges were increased, the district attorney's office (OK Judicial District 11) asked the court to increase Nelson's bond within a filing that suggests the Blanchards were repeatedly threatening to kill Nelson:

When the victim's moved to Bartlesville, Oklahoma and purchased property at 501 SE Frank Phillips Blvd. Suite 102 Bartlesville, OK 74003 the Defendant immediately sent the victim's a certified letter stating "the death threats from you and/or your associates MUST end!". The Defendant also sent emails to the Bartlesville City Manager and the Executive Assistant to the City Manager after an article appeared in the Bartlesville Examiner about the Victim's business coming to Bartlesville, Oklahoma.

From Case No. CF-2021-304, State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

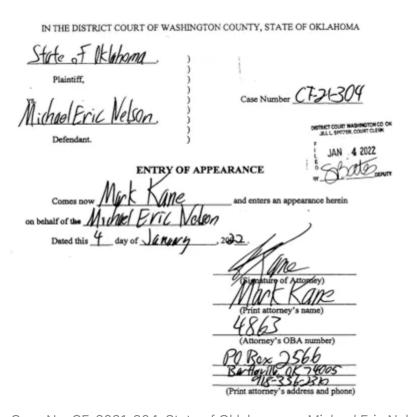

Nelson, who could not be found to be served on the earlier charge, was picked up at a New Jersey airport and extradited to Washington County, Oklahoma, a place and a state he had never visited prior and had no ties to. Nelson had to surrender his passport and was placed on an ankle monitor.

If you're looking for case CF-2021-304 (The State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson) within court records, you'll find it's been mysteriously sealed, expunged or otherwise erased from public view by Court Clerk Jill Spitzer, despite the defendant in the case never requesting such an action. Fortunately, this publication and several concerned local citizens thought to grab many of the case documents back when they were available to the public.

Nelson Corrects Insider Attorney Assignment

Initially, upon his arrest and extradition, Nelson was directed to attorney Mark Kane of Bartlesville to handle his defense in the criminal case.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Nelson likely figured out that Mark Kane is a direct relative of city attorney Jess Kane, recipient of his whistleblower email, and fired him. On January 27, 2022, Nelson attorney Perry Newman entered the case and promptly succeeded in getting the ankle monitor dropped and allowing Nelson to return to reside in Rhode Island with permission to visit Oklahoma to consult with his attorneys. Later, on October 5, 2022, Kevin D. Adams also entered the case as counsel for Nelson.

Sigler was appointed as a Washington County Special Judge by then District Judge Curtis DeLapp who was removed for grossly abusing his power and falsifying court records. Assistant District Attorney Zoe E. Gullett served as prosecutor on the case.

Within the hearing, Cynthia Blanchard made many claims about Nelson's threatening behavior, phone messages and communications, yet none were supported by evidence. In fact, the DA's office did not provide a referenced disk of phone messages as part of discovery, and ADA Gullett elected to pull all exhibits back out of record at the conclusion of the hearing.

During testimony, Blanchard established she had known Newman since 2007, and he had worked for her at Anthem Vault in Las Vegas until February 24, 2019, first as a consultant then as chief strategy officer. Blanchard claimed Nelson threatened to shoot one of the company's board members and her husband fired him, though no other witness was presented to verify her claim. Blanchard said Nelson then applied for unemployment in Nevada, which she claims they denied through three appeals. She claimed Nelson then harassed them by phone, email and social media, including within group emails to up to 100 others associated with the business. No proof of those claims was presented.

Blanchard confirmed that Bartlesville city manager Mike Bailey contacted her to inform Nelson had sent a communication to the city talking badly about the Blanchards.

Blanchard admitted she had applied for a PPO against Nelson in California which the court denied. Blanchard also admitted she had also filed a police report for harassment and stalking against Tom Lingert, a former board member.

When asked if any clients or shareholders had ever been critical or expressed complaints, Blanchard repeatedly said "that's not my wheelhouse" or "you'll have to ask my husband" who was not present at the hearing despite being listed as a state's witness.

Nelson's attorney established that Nelson never made a physical threat toward the Blanchards but Cynthia Blanchard kept saying there was a "blood feud". Cynthia Blanchard also admitted she may have passed on an article to Nelson about the death of a whistleblower. Given then HeraSoft staff member Dale D. Takio previously avoided prosecution on a 2015 racketeering charge when Glenn Brignolo, the main whistleblower in the case, unexpectedly died just two days after Takio and codefendant Ryan Deming were arrested, it appears to have been Cynthia Blanchard who was threatening Nelson through communications.

HeraSoft staff including Dale Takio (previously at herasoft.com; site now down)

Rhonda Elaine Banes, executive assistant to city manager Mike Bailey testified that she reviewed the whistleblower email from Nelson to Bailey and, after opening every link and deciding it needed legal attention, forwarded Nelson's email to city attorney Jess Kane. Banes agreed that someone with a connection to the company was making a complaint, described the communication as similar to others the office receives regarding other businesses and said she did not feel threatened by the message. Banes confirmed being familiar with whistle blower status or whistle blowers. Oddly, Kane did not testify.

Bailey described his position (city manager) as the CEO of the city who "runs the city like a corporation" and testified that he mainly knew the Blanchards through the Bartlesville Development Authority (BDA). Conversely, under cross examination, Bailey admitted he did not make any attempt to investigate the allegations in the whistleblower email because he "was not involved in the decision about the economic development" which he informed the city contracts to the BDA. Bailey stated he believed the Blanchards were offered a relocation incentive, but added, "I don't recall specifically". The relocation incentive to the Blanchards is reported to have been $100,000.

Bailey confirmed Nelson's email with attachments was received (August 25, 2021) around the time HeraSoft was discussing further city incentives with the BDA. Rather than seeing the email as a warning to a town getting ready to give public funds to potential swindlers, Bailey called the email "an attempt to bring into question their (Blanchards') business practices" and "essentially an assault against their integrity and their business practices." While Banes said she forwarded the email to city attorney Kane, Bailey confirmed the email went straight to himself, contained information about lawyers in Vegas, Los Angeles, New York, and Boston concerning HeraSoft, and was not harassing or threatening.

Detective William 'Miles' Lewis of the Bartlesville Police Department (BPD) also testified at the hearing. Lewis was previously involved in the shooting death of unarmed Thomas Gaye along with Officer Jessica Pitts which resulted in a wrongful death suit against the city. This publication encourages all Oklahomans to read our previous article to gain an understanding of just how unaccountable Bartlesville's public agencies, including the BPD, have become:

Bartlesville Has Police and DHS Problems: LGBT Activism Costs Lives, Crushes Careers & Undermines Safety

Trans-Tyranny: Bartlesville - Part 4 - March 13, 2023 MAR 13, 2023 • VISUT

Detective Lewis testified he was assigned a stalking case against Nelson. On a search warrant signed by District Judge Linda Thomas, Lewis stated he seized two of Nelson's cell phones from the Washington County Sheriff's Office property room. Despite Lewis stating the phones had been sent to an AT&T digital forensic lab in Edmond in care of the OSBI Forensic Science Center, the ADA didn't ask him any other questions about the phones or their contents.

Despite a lack of evidence, Sigler ruled in favor of the state. Cynthia Blanchard stating her feelings and claiming she had evidence was deemed enough. According to Judge Sigler, because Blanchard felt "threatened or annoyed based upon the longevity of these incidents that have been occurring for quite some time...also you have telephone messages or voice mails in conjunction with emails that were sent to the City of Bartlesville to our City Manager and to his executive assistant, so for the purpose of preliminary hearing, the State has met its burden regarding this matter." Nelson was bound over for arraignment on felony charges.

Judge Linda Thomas Assigns Herself the Case: Blocks Motion to Dismiss

On June 16, 2022, Nelson's attorney Newman filed a convincing motion to dismiss Count 2 based upon the doubling up of charges for the same alleged act (double jeopardy) and the absence of any evidence:

Statement of Facts

Count 2 charges the Defendant with sending an electronic communication with information regarding Cynthia Blanchard to two employees of the City of Bartlesville. The record is void of any evidence the Defendant has ever previously communicated with either employee. The record is void of any evidence the employees were ever threatened, annoyed, molested, fearful, terrified, intimidated or left as ill ease. Quite the opposite. Both witnesses testified that neither felt any ill feelings because of the communication sent to them by the Defendant (See Preliminary Hearing Transcript pages 55-56 and 64) The record is void on any evidence as to the intent of the Defendant to harm the employees in any way and the only mention of either employee in the alleged communication is in the address to which the communication was sent. Neither employee was ever mentioned, addressed, or named in the body of the communication.

Argument and Authority

No evidence exists the Defendant violated any provisions of Title 21 O.S. §1953, 1172, 1173 or 850. His actions as alleged in Count 2 do not constitute a violation of any of those provisions.

Count 2 of the Amended Information should be dismissed for lack of sufficient evidence to proceed to trial and the Defendant demurs to this Count 2 and requests a directed verdict of not guilty.

WHEREFORE the Defendant request this Honorable Court grant his Motion to Dismiss and Demur based upon the arguments and authority cited above.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

In response (8/5/22), Judge Linda Thomas, the highest ranking judge within Judicial District 11 who had by then assigned the case to herself, rejected all elements of the motion to dismiss. Later, the DA's office would be granted the identical request to drop the same charge based upon Newman's previous argument.

ADA Gullett Wants Nelson Kept Close as All BitClub Scammers Want Him Silenced: Federal Case in Kansas Bleeds into Oklahoma Court

Next, ADA Zoe Gullett requested Nelson's bond be increased from $50,000 to $125,000, his ankle monitor be reinstated and he be required to appear in person based upon his actions in mounting a defense in a different, federal case, United Capital Management of Kansas, Inc and Chad M. Koehn vs. Michael E. Nelson (22-4008-JWB-GEB). In the case out of federal court in Salina, Kansas, Chad Koehn, a board member for Anthem Holdings, was demanding $75,000 for libel, assault and slander as Nelson counter-claimed. That case has since been mutually dismissed (March 28, 2023), but at the time in Bartlesville, Nelson was mounting his defense and countersuit.

2023 dismissal of Kansas federal case United Capital Management of Kansas, Inc and Chad M. Koehn vs. Michael E. Nelson (22-4008-JWB-GEB).

For contacting Mark Ritter (Anthem Holdings Board of Directors and Hera Soft associate/shareholder) and Craig Piercy (shareholder Anthem Holdings), as well as a Bartlesville attorney to arrange for the deposition of Gil Gilliam (HeraSoft Chief Customer Officer), all related to the federal case, ADA Gullett accused Nelson of further harassing the Blanchards.

HeraSoft staff Gil Gilliam (previously at herasoft.com).

ADA Gullett described Nelson's efforts to inform these shareholders about the Blanchards' involvement in fraudulent activity as "fabricated to slander the victim (the Blanchards)":

The defendant is charged with Violation of the Computer Crimes Act by Stalking the victims and it appears that he has continued to engage in his behaviors by contacting known associates of the victims instead of the victim's themselves. He has contacted two shareholders that we know of and he has written emails indicated his intention to deposition an employee who physically works in Washington County while eluding to using Federal resources if necessary.

The State of Oklahoma is also in possession of other emails that appear to be fabricated to slander the victim as well as associates that are being investigated by the Bartlesville Police Department and the Salina Police Department.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

In responding to the ADA's motion, Nelson's attorney Newman clarified all of the relationships and the legitimate reasons for Nelson's contact related to the federal case:

Chad Koehn the plaintiff in the federal lawsuit, is a member of the board of directors of Anthem Holdings Company, and that company is controlled by the complaining witness and her husband². Mr. Nelson owns a significant portion of Anthem Holdings Company³. (In the preliminary hearing of this matter Cynthia Blanchard testified that Mr. Nelson was a shareholder in the company her and her husband controlled⁴.) So the relationships are clear, Chad Koehn a board member is suing Eric Nelson a shareholder and the state's complaining witness Cynthia Blanchard is the president of the company.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Newman states Chad Koehn, not Nelson, as identifying Cynthia Blanchard and Gilliam as witnesses in the federal case:

The lawsuit that Mr. Nelson is defending involves the state's complaining witness Cynthia Blanchard and Gil Gilliam. Mrs. Blanchard and Gil Gilliam are listed as potential witnesses in Chad Koehn's initial disclosures in that lawsuit. (See Attached Exhibit G, Plaintiff's Initial Disclosures, page 3 numbers 6 and 8)

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Newman also confirms that Nelson spoke only truth concerning the BitClub scam. Several were indicted and it was indeed a Ponzi scheme:

The state also complains that during a conversation with Mr. Piercy that "The defendant told Mr. Piercy that the Blanchard's were con-artists who operated Ponzi schemes, that they used their companies to hide money and steal money from investors. He mentioned specific companies such as Anthem Vault and HeraSoft."

In the Department of Justice Press Release⁷ concerning the case, federal prosecutors said the following:

Defendants Goettsche, Balaci, and Weeks have been charged with conspiracy to engage in wire fraud in connection with their roles in BitClub Network. From April 2014 through December 2019, BitClub Network was a fraudulent scheme that solicited money from investors in exchange for shares of purported cryptocurrency mining pools and rewarded investors for recruiting new investors into the scheme. Goettsche, Balaci,

Weeks, and others conspired together to solicit investment in BitClub Network through fraudulent means, including by providing false and misleading figures that BitClub investors were told were "bitcoin mining earnings" purportedly generated by BitClub Network's bitcoin mining pool. Goettsche, Balaci, Weeks, and others obtained the equivalent of at least $722 million from BitClub Network investors.

Defendants Goettsche, Balaci, Weeks, and Abel also conspired to sell BitClub Network shares—which were securities—notwithstanding that BitClub Network did not register the shares with the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. Weeks and Abel created videos and traveled around the United States and the world to promote BitClub Network and recruit others to invest.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Then, Newman explains just why the Blanchards might wish for Nelson to be silenced. Nelson possessed firsthand information about Anthem Blanchard's involvement in the BitClub scheme:

⁶ https://s3.us-east-2.amazonaws.com/hercmedia/herc_2018_whitepaper.pdf

⁷ https://www.justice.gov/usao-nj/bitclub

It is not just that the Blanchard's had a member of the "Advisory Board" that was indicted for the "BitClub Conspiracy", while Mr. Nelson worked for the Blanchard's he personally witnessed Anthem Blanchard recruit for and invest money into BitClub.

The Blanchard's have also started multiple companies in recent years and make astounding claims such as their company is securing the energy grid in California, claim to be in partnership with the country of the Netherlands, claim to be securing all gold imports and exports to the country of the Netherlands.

The issue concerning whether or not the Blanchard's are involved in a "Ponzi Scheme", and whether or not they are being assisted by Chad Koehn the board member of Anthem Holdings Company, are all the issues involved in the federal litigation in Kansas.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Newman describes how the Blanchards and others are using the Washington County District Attorney's office to thwart Nelson's defense within the Kansas case:

What has occurred between these two cases is a board member of Anthem Holdings Company sues Mr. Nelson, lists the Blanchards and their employees as witnesses against Mr. Nelson in a federal civil case and then when Mr. Nelson wants to depose witnesses associated with the Blanchards to defend the federal lawsuit, the

Blanchards run to the Washington County District Attorney's office to try and stop Mr.

Nelson from defending the federal case. Mr. Nelson has a constitutional right to participate in the federal litigation pending in the United States District Court of Kansas and he has done nothing wrong by doing so.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Next, Newman goes on to explain how Nelson became aware of the Blanchard's fraudulent activities involving the crypto currency "Herc". Shareholders had contacted Nelson during his employment with the Blanchards asking about their vanished Herc investments. The Blanchards were CEO and President of Herc, and BitClub mastermind Joby Weeks was on the Herc advisory board:

Mr. Nelson has good reason to believe that the Blanchard's are running a Ponzi scheme. The dispute between Mr. Nelson and the Blanchards began while he was employed by one of their many companies over a crypto currency named "Herc", Mr. Nelson received an email from a fellow share holder who informed him that a group of investors had purchased three million dollars of the crypto currency and wanted to know where the money was.

In a document⁶ explaining "Herc" produced by the Blanchard's (See Attached Exhibit H, "Herc" White Paper) the Blanchard's are listed as CEO and President on page 14 and on page 18 is an individual know as Joby Weeks. Mr. Weeks is listed as a member of the "Advisory Board". Mr. Weeks, was indicted out of United States District Court in New Jersey, in United States of America v. Matthew Brent Goettsche et al., 18-CR-877-CCC, for conspiracy to engage in wire fraud in connection with his role in BitClub Network. Mr. Weeks ultimately entered a plea in that case.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

Despite the actual evidence, on 10/12/22, Judge Linda Thomas granted the state's motion and increased Nelson's bond to $100K. Thomas then went above and beyond the ADA's request to keep Nelson local and slap an ankle monitor back on him. Thomas took Nelson's freedom and his right to a defense in the federal case by taking him into custody and enforcing a broad, no-contact order.

Someone wanted Nelson kept close and quiet through his trial as he appears to be the key to tying Anthem Blanchard to the BitClub scheme others were indicted for. What is less clear is why city leaders, the DA, two judges and the BPD were so willing to assist the Blanchards and so eager to gift them Price Tower.

Nelson's Trial & Transfer of Price Tower Happen on the Same Day: A Jury Sees Through it All, Including a Plant Among Them

Jury selection on the Nelson trial occurred on February 6, 2023. The trial began on February 7th, the very day that the Price Tower was signed over to the Blanchards' Green Copper Holdings LLC for $10. Judge Linda Thomas presided.

Testimony is reported to have largely mirrored the preliminary hearing nearly a year earlier. The jury was sequestered.

This publication obtained a list of jurors in the Nelson case, some of whom had much to say about their experience.

A juror described a highly partisan court:

"Having sat upon this jury I can tell you every single objection by the district attorney was sustained and every objection by the defense was overruled. It was like the fix was in and the defendant was already guilty. They were just going through the motions and expected us on the jury to act like sheep and do as we were told. I am ashamed to live in Washington County and ashamed of our judicial system which has lost all respect in the eyes of the citizens."

A witness to the trial states Cynthia Blanchard admitted to crimes during her testimony:

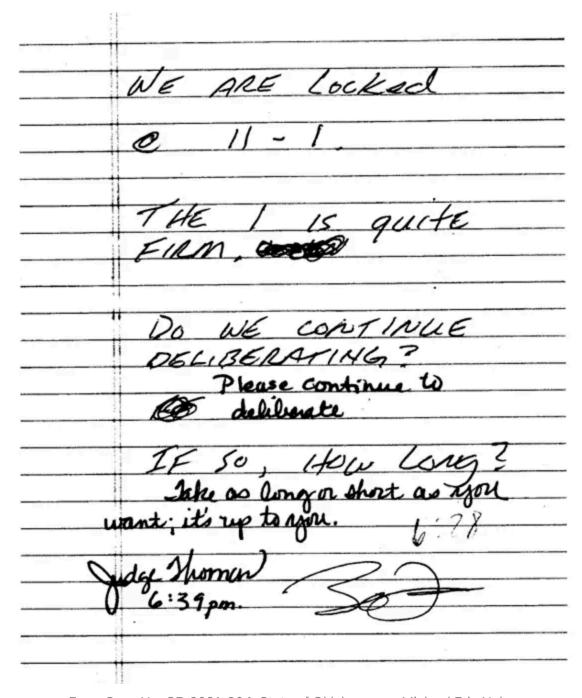

"Cynthia Blanchard directly admitted to committing wire fraud and running a Ponzi fraud stealing people's retirement accounts. Then the district attorney claimed not to know what a Ponzi scheme was at all."

A juror described Cynthia Blanchard's testimony:

"I witnessed her (Cynthia Blanchard) testify. She lied constantly and consistently, she was caught in lie after lie after lie. I am ashamed the District Attorney stood in front of us and asked us to convict an innocent man. I am ashamed of the corruption I witnessed first hand in Washington County Court. It is evident there is one type of justice for those in power and another justice for those who are not part of the club. Linda Thomas was the worst judge I have ever seen. She was so biased, her rulings showed everyone on our jury she had made up her mind before the jury was even selected."

A juror states Judge Linda Thomas selected one juror who was identified by fellow jurors during deliberations as a plant. The reporting juror kept notes on the experience and recounted the jury was sent to deliberate around 3:00 pm on February 8th. The first vote was 11-1, not guilty. The juror states they sent out a note after three hours informing Judge Thomas they were still locked at an 11-1 vote as confirmed in previously available court documents.

From Case No. CF-2021-304. State of Oklahoma vs. Michael Eric Nelson.

There was another jury note that the online court record states "has not been found". After Judge Thomas' reply telling the jury to "take as long or short as you want; it's up to you", 11 jurors are reported to have made it clear they would stay to ensure truth and justice prevailed. At 6:53 pm, the jury sent a note that they had reached a verdict.

Nelson was found 'not guilty' on all charges and immediately left Oklahoma. This publication, despite considerable effort, was not able to locate Mr. Nelson for comment. Transcripts from Nelson's trial have been hidden by request from now Washington County District Attorney Will Drake's office.

Project Anthem: Is Tulsa the Next Target?

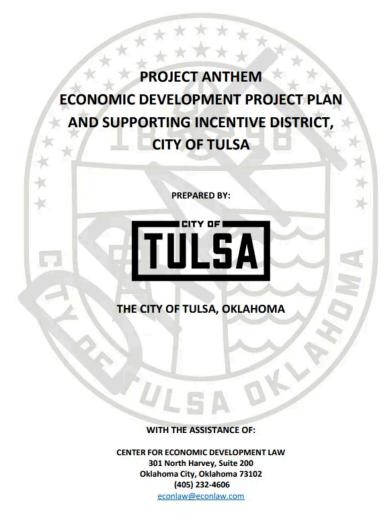

As the Bartlesville walls are closing in, a mystery company is negotiating with the Tulsa City Council to bring a familiar sounding 50 new, high-paying jobs to a rural area of East Tulsa. According to Tulsa city councilor Christian Bengel, a non-disclosure agreement won't allow him to reveal who's behind "Project Anthem" just yet.

Tulsa Channel 8 report on Project Anthem in East Tulsa.

The city is pledging an 85% reduction in ad valorem taxes for 25 years to bring the purportedly $800 million, high-tech data center to Tulsa. It is unknown what cash or land incentives will be offered through other public sources to incent Project Anthem to move forward. Perhaps, like the Price Tower, this mystery entity will be provided the 340 acres of land for just $10. The professionals at the Center for Economic Development Law (OKC) and NGO Partner Tulsa who helped prepare the draft proposal don't seem to have any concerns about Project Anthem, as it will "achieve the City's development objectives, improve the quality of life for its citizens, stimulate private investment, and enhance the tax base."

Draft proposal for Project Anthem at partnertulsa.org.

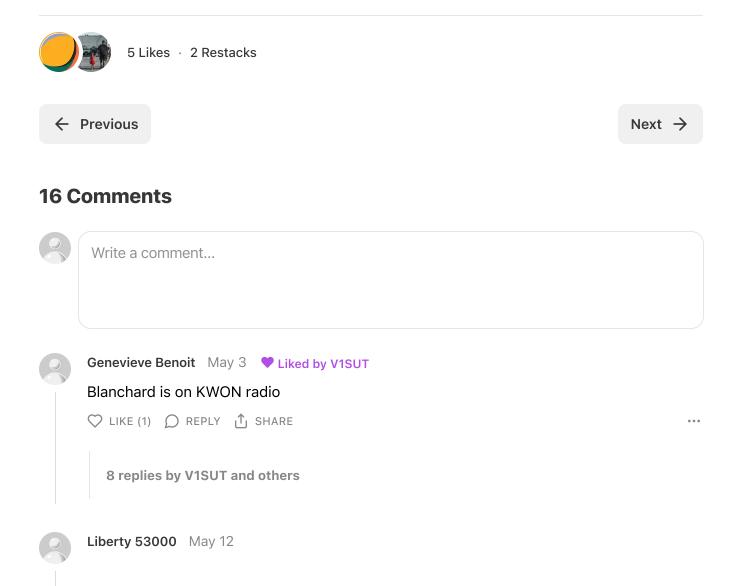

Perhaps it's time for State Supreme Court Chief Justice M. John Kane IV, Secretary of State Josh Cockroft, OSBI Director Aungela Spurlock and State Auditor and Inspector Cindy Byrd to take a closer look at the actions of the Washington County Court, the Bartlesville Police Department, the Bartlesville Development Authority and Bartlesville's City Manager and City Attorney before the people of Tulsa pay the next price.

Concern Over Price Tower Grows

Leaders of the Frank Lloyd Wright Building Conservancy expressed concerns to the Bartlesville Examiner-Enterprise about recent developments at the historic Price Tower in Bartlesville, OK and its current ownership.

The FLWBC, which facilitates the preservation and stewardship of works designed by Frank Lloyd Wright by holding an easement in perpetuity over properties like the Price Tower, told the newspaper they are monitoring the situation closely.

The Conservancy's easement stipulates things like maintaining insurance on the building, paying bills on time to prevent liens and preserving the building's original architectural integrity.

"We are concerned," John Waters, preservation program manager for the Conservancy, said, "Yes, this is a significant Wright building. It was a potential nominee for World Heritage, and it seems to be really struggling right now."

Price Tower, completed in 1956 in Bartlesville, Oklahoma, is one of Wright's most unique designs and his only realized skyscraper. In March 2023, after years of financial woes and struggles to maintain Price Tower, new owners promised to breathe new life into the Tower with an infusion of $10M investment.

The new life has failed to materialize as promised.

Waters said the Conservancy has been concerned about the Tower's struggles over the last few years but hoped Cynthia Blanchard could turn things around.

"It's a hard model, and it needs to find the right person, and we had hoped that this would be the right person," Waters said. "From what we had been hearing ourselves and what we're hearing now makes us question that."

Waters confirmed the Conservancy conveyed to Blanchard what the easement meant and how it worked before she gained control of the Tower.

Barbara Gordon, executive director of the Conservancy, calls the Price Tower "a very special building." She fondly recalls getting stuck in one of its tiny elevators the last time she was there.

"If there could be a stakeholder group in Bartlesville that could really come together and say this Tower is important to us," Gordon said. "Bringing key stakeholders rather than just a few to really say, 'How do we secure this for the future?' "

Gordon explained that the Conservancy provides valuable resources and connections to other Wright sites, but ultimately, the community will lead the effort.

"We always believe that all preservation is local," she said.

Gordon and Waters said the easement gives the Conservancy legal options to rectify issues, but they weren't considering pursuing that option.

"When you go to court, nobody wins; that's something we want to avoid," Waters said. "Our goal would be to work to find a new steward for the building before we did anything else."

"The international Frank Lloyd Wright and design communities are watching what's happening in Bartlesville right now," Waters said.

Waters said the Conservancy plans to inspect the Tower in the next few months to better understand what's happening.

Blanchard, owner of Copper Tree Inc. and the Price Tower, did not respond to requests to comment on the original story.

Schweikher House Hosts A Peony Party Fundraiser

The Schweikher House Preservation Trust invites the public to a summer afternoon fundraiser at the Schweikher House in Schaumburg, Illinois on Saturday, June 8th, from 1pm to 4pm. in support of our organization. Enjoy the 35 varieties of blooming peonies and hors d'oeuvres from Unforgettable Edibles while mingling throughout the house and grounds. Classical guitarist, Brad Conroy, will provide the soundtrack for the afternoon.

Tickets support educational outreach and programming as well as maintaining a growing collection of Alexander and Martyl Langsdorf artifacts (subsequent owners of the home) — plus Paul Schweikher artifacts.

The Schweikher House was constructed in 1938 as Modernist architect Paul Schweikher's home and studio. The property is listed on the National Register of Historic Places, a local Schaumburg landmark, the AIA Illinois top 200 architectural sites in Illinois, a longstanding member of Docomomo Chicago and a new member of Iconic Houses.

McDonald House Rescued From Ruin

In its heyday, the McDonald House, a mid-century home in Birmingham, Alabama was the height of 1960s modern design, with wide horizontal planes used to create a spacious interior. Embracing the tenets of organic architecture, the house celebrates its picturesque location with huge windows and a palette of natural materials. Once a beloved family home, it fell into disrepair after the owner died.

The home's architect, John Randal McDonald's buildings were more affordable versions of visionary architect Frank Lloyd Wright's work. McDonald's designs included jutting rooflines, repeating rectangles, ribbon windows and horizontal lines, but without the expensive masonry, glasswork or costly carpentry of Wright.

Happily, the two-bedroom home was rescued from ruin by local investors who spotted its potential. Despite being built in 1960, the house still looks ultra-modern today, with the exterior featuring restored window panes and a manicured lawn with shrubs. The whole property was brought up to 2019 energy codes, with updated electrics, plumbing and a septic tank.

Featuring a 1,500-square-foot floor plan, the renovated house has an open living area, two bedrooms, two bathrooms, a family den, a walk-in closet and a pantry.

The restoration carefully retained McDonald's original vision for the house, while updating the residence for modern living.

Celebrating Roland Reisley At 100

Join the Frank Lloyd Wright Building Conservancy for an online celebration of Roland Reisley's 100th Birthday! In 1951 at the age of 26, Roland and his late wife, Ronny, commissioned Frank Lloyd Wright to design his home as part of the Usonia community in Pleasantville, New York. Roland is now the only person still living in a house designed for him by Wright. A founding Board member of the Frank Lloyd Wright Building Conservancy, we will have a chance to hear first-hand from Roland about his experience working with Wright and how the house has contributed to his longevity. Please bring a glass of something bubbly to toast!

The virtual event will be held over Zoom on Wednesday, May 22, 2024 from 5 – 6 p.m. CDT. Registration is free but required.

Bartlesville Oklahoma has been ripped off by bitcoin con artists. First thank you for having this website. We found out about it reading transcripts of a sham criminal case brought in Washington County Oklahoma. We are thankful this website exists to memorialize the fraud that is ocurring in Oklahoma. Many articles have outed the fraud and thefts ocurring under our noses. Brad Doenges acting as the chairman of our community arts center and museum transferred the Price Tower an iconic landmark, on the National Register of Historic buildings to a LLC located in New Mexico controlled by Cynthia Blanchard.

We as a community found out about the fraud directly from Cynthia Blanchard's filthy mouth as she physically accosted and yelled at our local news reporter:

Upon arriving Wednesday evening, the EE reporter was accosted by Price Tower owner Cynthia Blanchard. "Andy, what the f are you doing here? What the f are you doing?" Blanchard yelled from across the parking lot. "Are you trying to kill the Tower?"

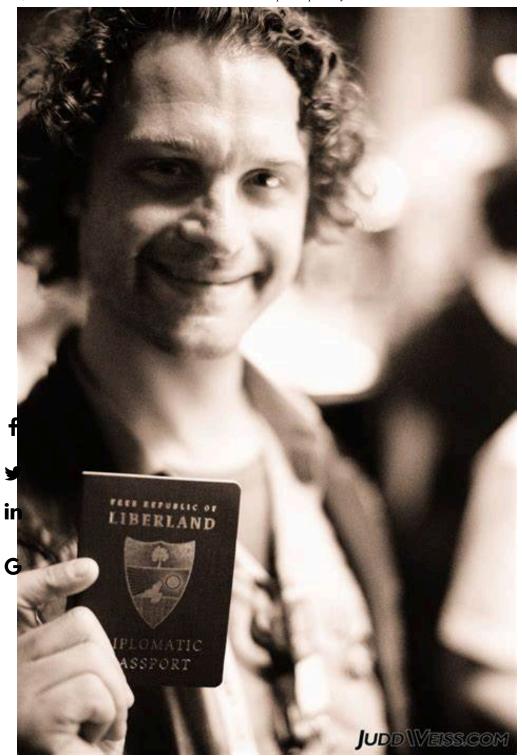

https://www.aol.com/historic-shinenkan-artifacts-sold-price-164734356.html

Cynthia Diane Fench, graduated from nearby Dewey High School before her future husband Anthem Hayek Blanchard was even born. As she is now called Cynthia D. Blanchard is the person who was caught tearing the Shin'enKan Gate from its hinges and having it and many other artifacts, furniture and musem piece loaded on to a truck as she was caught selling Bartlesville's community assets and museum pieces. This is theft from the community as a whole. Never did the $10 (ten dollar) transfer of the Price Tower to Green Copper Holdings LLC out of New Mexico supposed to include the museum artifacts too. Cynthia Blanchard stole from the community, some how the museum artifacts and all the art work were included in the deal for Ten Dollars that Bard Doenges signed over to Green Copper Holdings LLC out of New Mexico?

A number of articles now show that Cynthia Blanchard the former president of Herasoftware development in Bartlesville that claimed contracts with the US and foreign governments all over the world, received money from The City of Bartlesville for 50 high paying jobs, now is suddenly broke! WHAT? How did this happen and why is Anthem Blanchard now representing Anthem Vault Inc. and the employees are claiming they were all paid by Anthem Vault Inc. to work for Hera Software? We have been lied to again and again by Cynthia D. Blanchard and supposedly Anthem Blanchard that Cynthia now says is responsible for Herasoft.

Herasoft moved its operations to Bartlesville in 2021 with a reported $5 million round of series-A funding and a growing client list. Blanchard claimed they had offices in Houston and Sao Paulo, Brazil, at the time.

He also was the executive officer of two now-defunct crypto-blockchain companies, Hercules SEZC and AnthemGold, both of which are facing multiple online accusations of fraud from customers.

Blanchard is also linked to 38 other companies, such as AMAGI Metals LLC, Anthem Bank Inc, Anthem Coins Ltd, Anthem Crypto, Anthem AU, AnthemDerivatives, AnthemDollar Ltd and AnthemGold Inc.

Further complicating matters, Herasoft Inc. is selling the building housing its Bartlesville headquarters, the historic and former Washington County Courthouse, for $1.2 million.

Meanwhile, Anthem's wife Cynthia, owner of Price Tower and former president of Herasoft, is selling museum artifacts to address the tower's financial shortcomings.

Cynthia Blanchard previously said that Herasoft employees were part of the team taking ownership of the Price Tower.

Anthem Blanchard and Herasoft were unavailable for comment and phone numbers associated with Herasoft are no longer in service.

https://www.aol.com/herasoft-unable-fulfill-monetary-obligations-164029323.html

So Herasoft employees Craig Brand, Dale Takio, and Mike Moran are identified in other articles as having a deal with Cynthia Blanchard to transfer their debts owed by Herasoft to Copper Tree that manages the Price Tower owned by Green Copper Holdings, but now they are all linked with Anthem Vault and Herasoft, and according to articles dozens of other companies.

Herasoft moved its operations to Bartlesville in 2021 with a reported $5 million round of series-A funding and a growing client list. Blanchard claimed they had offices in Houston and Sao Paulo, Brazil, at the time.

He also was the executive officer of two now-defunct crypto-blockchain companies, Hercules SEZC and AnthemGold, both of which are facing multiple online accusations of fraud from customers.

Blanchard is also linked to 38 other companies, such as AMAGI Metals LLC, Anthem Bank Inc, Anthem Coins Ltd, Anthem Crypto, Anthem AU, AnthemDerivatives, AnthemDollar Ltd and AnthemGold Inc.

https://www.examiner-enterprise.com/story/news/2021/09/25/bartlesville-herasoft-ransomware-protection-software-company/5831611001/

Very strange that Herasoft has some how gone through over $5 million while its employees were paid by Anthem Vault Inc. and Cynthia Blanchard suddenly stops being president of Herasoft but the employees of Herasoft that are paid by Anthem Vault are the ones with equity and working for Copper Tree that manages the building, art work and museum artifacts that some how Brad Doenges transferred to Green Copper Holdings? How did Brad Doenges have the power to tansfer a $12 million building and what other articles say are $30 to possibly even $40 million in artwork and artifacts?

Cynthia Blanchard claims Price Tower had $500,000 in debt that was personally guaranteed by a board member of Price tower arts center, that Brad Doenges was the chairman of, supposedly giving him the right to make the transfer. If Brad Doenges is the person that personally guaranteed to the debt Cynthia Blanchard claims she took over then Brad Doenges is personally liable for what the lawyers call treble penalties of the $50 to $60 MILLION in assets transferred for just $10. The Internal Revenue Service IRS says that this sort of insider dealing subjects the guilty parties to at least 3 X (Three Times) the illegally transferred value, so that could be penalties of $180 Million against Brad Doenges and Cynthia Blanchard!

There is another person involved here Chad Koehn from Kansas that manages money for people in Oklahoma too. Koehn is listed on a Federal Lawsuit in Kansas that was also referenced in a sham criminal case in Oklahoma that cost all of us tax payers a fortune. The case was total corruption brought by Cynthia Blanchard through the City Council of Bartlesville Oklahoma against a whistleblower.

Chad Koehn is quoted in various articles connected to Herasoft and he is listed as the chairman of the board of directors of Herasoft whose employees Craig Brand, Mike Moran and Dale Takio all transferred their debts and work for Copper Tree, but own equity in Green Copper Holdings?

Chad Koehn, president and founder of United Capital Management, said he was referred to Blanchard by a friend for a software build he was doing, and became impressed with the security solution.

"After understanding what Anthem had developed I said, 'forget your software, I want to send you as much as I can scrape up for shares in your company," he said.

https://news.crunchbase.com/fintech-ecommerce/herasoft-looks-to-stop-ransomware-attacks-after-5m-raise/

Cynthia Blanchard is accused of dodgging debts of Price Tower, through Copper Tree against the equity holders of Green Copper Holdings, and those employees or equity partners of Price Tower were employees or contractors of Herasoft but the employees of Herasoft were paid by Anthem Vault Inc. according to other court records.

Brand claims he was told something completely different.

"I was brought in by [Cynthia] and informed by her that this was going to be a quick flip," Brand said. "The assets were going to be added up, that the art was going to be added up, that the building was going to be appraised, and then it was going to be flipped, and everybody would get their money back and a whole lot more."

Brand claims as a shareholder, every attempt to look at the Price Tower's books or to ask for internal documents about the Tower's financial health was met with silence.

According to internal Price Tower documents obtained by the EE, the Blanchards owe the three around $200,000. Moran, Takio and Brand say it's significantly more than that. Those same documents estimate the Tower's current debt to be close to $2 million.

The three men said they will sue the Blanchards "to be made whole" in what they say the Blanchards owe them for HeraSoft and Copper Tree.

Brand said pre-lawsuit notices have already been sent to the Blanchards asking them not to sell or transfer assets. He believes the Blanchards violated the pre-lawsuit notice by selling the few remaining Shin'enKan artifacts.

In a previous story, Cynthia Blanchard told the EE she had to sell off museum artifacts to keep the Price Tower afloat.

In response to requests for comment on this story, she (Cynthia Blanchard) replied, "I am not available to comment and talk."

https://finance.yahoo.com/news/price-tower-stakeholders-accuse-blanchards-211555276.html

The Story talks about Brand being Craig Brand, who is also listed on paperwork used as evidence during the sham criminal case where a whistleblower was prosecuted for alerting Mike Bailey Bartlesville City manager and the city attorney of Bartlesville to the what other articles say is a clear and present danger the Blanchards (Cynthia and Anthem Blancahrd) pose to the City of Bartlesville.

Project Anthem: Is Tulsa the Next Target?

With the 2023 release of the movie adaptation of Killers of the Flower Moon, many came to understand for the first time how the unholy partnering of government and greed in a rural area of Northeast Oklahoma led to the murder of many Osage tribal members and the theft of their wealth and land. With the discovery of oil on Osage land, government and ruthless fortune hunters paired to strip the Osage of their property, and often, their lives. Not much has changed in areas like Pawhuska and Bartlesville, Oklahoma, as the generational progeny of many of those legalized thieves and elitists continue to own much of the area and control the populous.

Within the newest wave of this concerning behavior, old tricks meet new technology as it appears Bartlesville is being raked by a pack of bitcoin hustlers with considerable help from a highly questionable group of city leaders.

https://v1sut.substack.com/p/ok-town-becomes-sanctuary-city-for

As the only Frank Lloyd Wright designed skyscraper ever built and a declared National Historic Landmark, Price Tower was estimated to be worth more than $6 million. The tower contains a hotel furnished with Wright pieces and was the longtime home of the Price Tower Arts Center (PTAC) which reportedly contained $20 to $30 million worth of art and historic artifacts. Somehow, yet not publicly mentioned at the time, the $10 deal included all art and other contents within Price Tower.

As Cynthia Blanchard was publicly promising to put $10 million into the tower's upkeep and renovation, touting HeraSoft's monetary success as just what the town needed, it appears from a lawsuit filed against Anthem Blanchard by American Express for $128,192.81 in unpaid debt, the couple may have been living off of cash advances from credit at the time. Nevertheless, city leaders began pledging taxpayer funds through the Bartlesville Development Authority to Green Copper Holdings to assist in the Blanchard's efforts to revamp a cestaurant and other interior features of the tower.

THIS IS NOT THE WAY OUR TAX DOLLARS ARE SUPPOSED TO BE SPENT! Why did Mike Bailey not immediately stop our government funding from going to the Blanchards if Bailey was told by a whistleblower about the American Express Lawsuit?

The articles also talk about a Fraud Alert being issued agains Cynthia Blanchard out of the Grand Cayman Islands in July of 2020! Interesting cause the financial planner, Chad Koehn who is quoted in the papers as scraping together as much money as he could for Herasoftware the company with the 50 high paying jobs, and contracts to governments all over the world was putting Five Million into Herasoftware as the Grand Cayman Islands fraud alert was issued and American Express was suing Anthem Blanchard and Anthem Vault the company said to have paid all the employees of Herasoftware.

Cynthia Blanchard touted Herasoftware's success and apparently her role as president and co-founder of Herasoft also called herasoftware as just the sort of success the town of Bartlesville needed and apparently how Cynthia Blanchard got Brad Doenges to give her SIXTY MILLION DOLLARS in assets for just Ten Dollars?

This is not just shady this is criminal.

The Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) needs to set up an office here alongside the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) and investigate what is going on with our tax dollars.

Chad Koehn is listed all over the place with Herasoftware, Anthem Vault, and many other companies all connected to Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard. One article shows how a Federal Lawsuit filed in Kansas directly references Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard in Oklahoma, and that lawsuit involves Chad Koehn and the same whistleblower that we spent a fortune prosecuting in Oklahoma in the sham criminal case brought by Cynthia Blanchard and apparently Mike Bailey the city manager.

"ADA Gullett Wants Nelson Kept Close as All BitClub Scammers Want Him Silenced: Federal Case in Kansas Bleeds into Oklahoma Court

Next, ADA Zoe Gullett requested Nelson's bond be increased from $50,000 to $125,000, his ankle monitor be reinstated and he be required to appear in person based upon his actions in mounting a defense in a different, federal case, United Capital Management of Kansas, Inc and Chad M. Koehn vs. Michael E. Nelson (22-4008-JWB-GEB). In the case out of federal court in Salina, Kansas, Chad Koehn, a board member for Anthem Holdings, was demanding $75,000 for libel, assault and slander as Nelson counter-claimed. That case has since been mutually dismissed (March 28, 2023), but at the time in Bartlesville, Nelson was mounting his defense and countersuit."

https://v1sut.substack.com/p/ok-town-becomes-sanctuary-city-for

This Federal Court with Chad Koehn interestingly lists one of Koehn's attorneys as Criag Brand, the same name that appears on evidence used in the shame whistleblower trial in Oklahoma and the same name appearing in the articles about mismangement by the Blanchards of Price Tower and we are guessing the same person that is owed $200,000 by the Blanchard's who has now equity in Price Tower via debt from Anthem Vault and Herasoftware the company that Chad Koehn is the chairnman of the Board of Directors.

https://finance.yahoo.com/news/price-tower-stakeholders-accuse-blanchards-211555276.html?fr=sycsrp_catchall Newman states Chad Koehn, not Nelson, as identifying Cynthia Blanchard and Gil Gilliam as witnesses in the federal case:

Newman also confirms that Nelson spoke only truth concerning the BitClub scam. Several were indicted and it was indeed a Ponzi scheme:

Ghen, Newman explains just why the Blanchards might wish for Nelson to be silenced. Nelson possessed firsthand information about Anthem Blanchard's involvement in the BitClub scheme:

Newman describes how the Blanchards and others are using the Washington County District Attorney's office to thwart Nelson's defense within the Kansas case:

Really who needs to be sued in Chad Koehn and United Capital Management of Kansas Inc. in Salina Kansas, they are obviously the ones committing Bitcoin or Bitclub or crypto currency frauds. There is no way a company Herasoftware that Chad Koehn president of United Capital Management of salina, kansas gave five million dollars to Herasoftware and sits on the board as the chairman of the board of directors, and some how his attorney on the Federal Lawsuit to silence a whistleblower who is also prosecuted in Oklahoma has the same attorney that is now suing Cynthia Blanchard for mismanaging the Price Tower and for what the attorney Craig Brand says was the premeditated plan of Cynthia Blanchard to add up all the furniture and artwork and appraise the tower and then FLIP EVERYTHING?

If Cynthia Blanchard is not made comfortable in a prison cell then certainly Brad Doegnes must be in on this fraud, alongside Chad Koehn, whose name is attached to everything in this horrible mess. These two men Koehn and Doenges need to be charged with crimes if Cynthia Blanchard is not charged with crimes for selling off our communities heritage.

The connections between Chad Koehn, the Blanchard's and Price Tower are so many its hard to not see them as one, especially if the Craig Brand guy is the same as the attorney for Chad Koehn and also somehow owed a debt from Anthem Vault and Herasotware that was transferred into equity in Price Tower? How can Cynthia Blanchard pick and choose which investors or employees get paid back their debt and who is left with nothing? Anthem Vault shows thousands of people waiting for their gold, others claiming to have received magnetic gold, there is another company Anthem Gold that sold a gold backed crypto currency mostly likely sold by Chad Koehn and United Capital Management of Kansas and then there is this crypto currency called HERC that is what prompted the whsitleblower to send the American Express and Grand Cayman Lawsuits to Bartlesville City Manager Mike Bailey.

The letter shows as evidence agaisnt the whistleblower in the sham criminal case, obviously used to silence the whistleblower, references the same man Craig Brand repeatedly saying Criag Brand is alleged to have paid a bribe to United Arab Emirates to release Anthem Blanchard from detainment for drug smuggling. Strangely also the name Craig Brand appears again as the criminal attorney for Dale Takio, who is listed as having worked for Herasoftware probably paid by Anthem Vault given the currently claims of employee lawsuits from Herasoftware paid by Anthem Vault. Dale Takio escaped criminal charges for racketeering in a real estate fraud against Simon Properties after the whistleblower in that case wound up dead just two days after Dale Takio was arrested. It is the case of the dead whistleblower in the Dale Takio RICO Racketeering criminal case brought by Simon Properties, that Cynthia Blanchard used to threaten the whistleblower with death for speaking out about the lawsuits and a large scale ponzi scheme Cynthia and/or Anthem Blanchard were involved in and the master mind of that ponzi scheme was the advisory board to Chad Koehn who was partners with a tier two pedophile who went on the run and was grabbed for pedophilia in Indonesia according to the federal lawsuit with Chad Cohen and multiple news reports.

How could Brad Doenges sign over Price tower, all the artwork inside, all the artwork outside all the musuem artifacts, the gates and artifacts bolted to the building to Cynthia Blanchard through a New Mexico LLC for just Ten Pollars and somehow claim to be oblivous to the Grand Cayman Islands lawsuit and fraud alert against Cynthia Blanchard, the American Express Lawsuit against Anthem Vault and Anthem Hayek Blanchard served upon Cynthia Blanchard. The Federal Lawsuit in Kansas involving the same name Criag Brand and Dale Takio and the litigants being United Capital Management of Kansas Inc. and Chad Koehn. This is not possible for Brad Doenges not to know all these facts prior to giving the building and its artifacts and art work to Cynthia Blanchard Gria a New Mexcio LLC for ten dollars.

We need criminal charges filed against someone immediately. There is too much shady business being conducted here.

Cynthia Blanchard spouting off about Craig A. Brand & Dale Takio & others @ Copper Bar Price Tower

AUTHOR: Bville Legal Beagle - (United States)

SUBMITTED: Tuesday, June 11, 2024

I recently went to Price Tower in Bartlesville Oklahoma in order to discover the truth regarding this horrific situation involving this frank lloyd wright iconic building. I was shocked by what I heard and want to share the comments and statements made by Cynthia and Anthem Blanchard, the proclaimed owners of the building.

Cynthia Blanchard states she was aggressively assaulted by Takio, Brand and Koehn. Blanchard says Koehn on numerous ocassions has tried to sexual molest her, and she has witnessed Koehn molest others in front of her. She claims it is not her or her husband that have anything to do with Russ Medlin, a convicted pedophile and Bitclub, they provided proof from a Federal Court case in Kansas showing it is Chad Koehn who has the relationship with Bitclub and Russ Medlin. Cynthia stated it was Koehn who brought in Joby Weeks and Koehn who has had all the dealings with bitclub, Medlin and others (I have attached the screen captures provided by Cynthia and Anthem Blanchard, the screen captures have been checked against the public case of Chad M. Koehn v. Nelson 5:22-CV-04008-JWB in Kansas Federal Court).

Cynthia Blanchard went on to explain she has been told by Craig Brand and seen proof the whistleblower newman is a "schizo" and nelson owes his life to her, because if she didn't put him in prison for his own safety then Takio who has arranged other murders would have certainly carried through with murdering Newman. Cynthia states Craig Brand and Dale Takio use the "dark web" to solicit others to carry out permanently getting rid of Nelson. Cynthia provided documents, Craig Brand has been involved in many criminal activities over the years and Blanchard claims she is afraid of him because of his sexual advances on her, intimidation and the crimes he has gotten away. Blanchard provided screen captures from the federal case involving whistleblower nelson and Chad Koehn who she also says has sexually assaulted her on numerous occasions and she is equally afraid of Koehn as she is Takio and Brand, stating all three men have been ganging up on her to extort money from her and Anthem.

Anthem Blanchard chimed in with information regarding the Jason Cartstensen claimed wages, explaining that Cartstensen never actually showed up for work. Anthem stated both he and Cynthia have had numerous private meetings with Judge Russell Vaclaw of the local court, stating that Cartstensen's attorney John Whitworth is a known drug addict with severe alcoholism. Anthem provided documents that Whitworth the attorney for Carstensen was suspended from the practice of law for his drug addictions, Cynthia Blanchard claims these drug addictions and severe alcoholism were explained to her by the DIstrict Attorneys Office and by Judge Vaclaw. Both Anthem and Cynthia Blanchard explained that John the attorney for Carstensen cannot be trusted, the DA, Judges and "Jill" in charge of the court know this and will eventually throw out the case because Carstensen's attorney "John" is a known drug abuser.

Cynthia Blanchard explained that she and Anthem are protecting the tower from Craig Brand, Dale Takio and others associated with Craig Brand. Both Blanchard's explained what an unsavory character Craig Brand is and that he is Chad Koehn's attorney they were forced by Chad Koehn to have an association with. Both Blanchard's claim Brand is known by the courts to be untrustworthy and they are both afraid of him and Takio. Anthem chimed in with evidence from the federal court case in Kansas with Chad Koehn and whistleblower nelson that proves just how dangerous Koehn, Brand and Takio are to anyone that gets in their path. The Blanchard's are hoping others will not be victimized by Craig Brand, Dale Takio and Chad Koehn. Cynthia states she believes these three men are stalking her and all three have attacked her at various times over their relationship that Blanchard states was always just professional on her part, but Brand and Koehn have repeatedly made sexual advances on her and made her fear for her physical safety.

Cynthia explained its hard to be a naturally beautiful woman in business and she has had repeated problems with men being physcially aggessive and sexually intimidating towards her. Cynthia Blanchard states another former board member she is petrified of she had to file police reports about dating back years. Blanchard states these board members get on the board of directors to her companies and then are physically and sexually harassing to her, just as she has states Brand, Takio and Koehn have been. Blanchard states this other criminal case involves stalking and harassment, she has proof the man is a sexual deviant and monster. In a strange twist Blanchard claims she met this former board member through whistleblower Newman, who Blanchard has previously brought up on stalking charges though he was acquitted. Blanchard states she continues with cases against this other board member she would only identify as "Tom", due to ongoing criminal charges. Blanchard states she is afraid of Brand and Takio and has not filed criminal cases against them yet, but she has informed authorities about Koehn. Brand she says is known by the courts to be dishonest and she has evidence he has lied to in the newspaper articles about her intent with price tower.

Blanchard states that they will continue to have a museum but they really need only one example of each piece of furniture or exhibit item. Blanchard states Doenges when he signed over the building, did it knowingly and willingly that Blanchard gets all the businesses, infrastructure, artwork, artifacts, museum everything in the building. Blanchard says Haskell and Doenges both encouraged her to liquidate the artifacts that are redundant and she is doing so carefully with the assistance of Scott Ambler who overseas the Price Tower on behalf of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation. Blanchard states the new museum will be a streamlined experience, and she will continue to move truck loads of not needed furniture and duplicate artifacts to be sold to finance her vision for the tower. Cynthia says everything she has done is with the recommendation and full support of the former board members of Price Tower Arts Center, that she says is dissolved. Blanchard states she paid them more than $500,000 stating they had personally loaned or donated money towards the tower which she has paid off for them and in return they signed off on giving her the tower and all contents for $10.00, it is as simple as that she claims.

The Blanchard's provided many pieces of evidence to support their claims most coming from the federal lawsuit in kansas. Both Blanchard's say it was Chad Koehn who was the aggressor and had it not been for the pressure applied by Koehn and the fear Newman would be murdered by Brand and Takio they would never have filed the charges they did. Both say they fear Koehn, Takio and Brand. Cynthia states she also fears a number of other former shareholders, boardmembers and even some investors who have been aggressive, harassing and have stalked her, Cynthia states she is in constant fear all these men will discover where she lives and come after her and Anthem. They state they have regular conversations with law enforcement, private conversations with all four judges in Washington County and the District Attorneys Office. Both Blanchard's state they are the ones who can be trusted and everyone is just out to bring down the Blanchard's but they are not going down.
